

Completed
2010

In the fall of 2011 the long awaited West Kump Avenue project was completed. The mile long project included a new bridge, a number of new retaining walls, median islands, a new center turn lane and new sidewalks along both sides of the street. The project lasted nearly 20 months and was separated into multiple phases. As part of the project, a new waterline was installed to replace an old undersized line and improve pressure and water quality of the City water system.
